Concert Party News

The BMC Concert Party continues to maintain its enthusiasm and membership this year with performances at Kangaroo Valley, the Beecroft Dance and practices each Monday evening in Hut 44.

In July 2018, eight Concert Party musicians played for bush dances at the Sutherland Bush Dance group in Gymea with around 40 people in attendance. In addition, a number of members attended and performed at the Bush Dance gathering at Bundanoon in June's chilly winter weather.

With upcoming functions including fundraising events for Cancer Research in September and November 2018 along with the Beecroft Dance in both September and December, this must be regarded as a busy year once again for Concert Party members.

CD REVIEW

The Lies that Made Australia a CD by Keith McKenry

This review follows an earlier Bush Music Club appraisal of a book by Keith McKenry titled More than a Life: John Meredith and the fight for Australian Tradition. The CD moves on and, rather smoothly augments, Meredith's struggles to preserve the folk heritage. It is a combination of poetry, lies and yarns that linger and bind many of our traditions.

Using a clever methodology, McKenry recites and discusses Australian lies and myths with live audiences at both the National and Maldon Folk Festivals. His technique is to provide the people present with a named and numbered list of 27 "lies". He then requests any audience member to call out a number. At this point he announces the title of that "lie" and proceeds to recite a poem and/or provide his view of the lie. Very effective!

Examples of the lies include, inter alia, Australia is a Classless Society, Asbestos, the Wonder Insulator and Captain Cook Discovered Australia. The CD is redolent with pathos and humour. McKenry knows his subject well. He addresses all "lies" in a warm and comforting way, even the most confronting topics.

It is pleasing to note the inclusion of Duke Tritton's The Sandy Hollow Line and John O'Brien's Said Hanrahan along with 13 of Mc Henry's own compelling and enjoyable works.

This is a veritable cornucopia of ripping and revealing yarns. McKenry is to be congratulated for this work which should form part of Australia's literary heritage for generations yet unborn. And that's no lie.

This has been another cold winter but it's good to see that numbers have been steady around the club's activities.

The club's Concert Party will be participating in a couple of Cancer Fund Raising activities in the coming months. Firstly, Saturday, 22nd September raising money for Cancer Research and Sunday 4th November in Lidcombe fund raiser for Bowel Cancer. I would encourage you all to support both activities.

Here are a couple of dates for your calendar; Bush Traditions Gathering is on again, in Yass this year, on the October long weekend. This is always an enjoyable weekend and I'll be looking forward to seeing you all there. Also, Kangaroo Valley Festival, 19-21 October, is always enjoyable.

The club continues to have a full program, including our regular Beecroft Bush Dances, Poet's Corner, Addison Road Sessions (singing), the Irish Slow Sessions and Monday night dance and music workshops but to name a few so check out our calendar and come along.

A chronicle of music in colonial Australia from 1542 to 1825 by Dr Graeme Skinner, Sydney University

These 4 pages are an open access work-in-progress to chronicle, in date order, all of the scarce documentary references to music and musicians in Australia, Indigenous and European, from earliest contacts until the end of 1825.

Entries are also included for some occasions in which music must certainly played a part, although there is no actual record of it, such as when it accompanied dancing, and civil, military, and religious ceremonies; and for some other important historical occasions when it is very likely to have done.

<http://sydney.edu.au/paradisec/australharmony/chronicle1821-1825.php>

The chronology starts with a map of Australia that was published in 1542, & another interesting entry mentions 3 of the survivors from the wreck of the Batavia in 1629 were trumpeters.

Heather Clarke's Exhibition: Dancing in fetters - the culture of convict dance at Redcliffe Museum, Brisbane

When we think of convicts, we don't tend to think of music and dance. But dance was an integral part of everyday life and one of the most popular forms of recreation in the early colony.

Exhibition developed by Moreton Bay Regional Council in partnership with dance historian, Heather Clarke.

CANBERRA COLONIAL BALL and CONCERT SATURDAY, 1 SEPTEMBER 2018

by Antonella Salpietro

The Monaro Folk Society's annual Ball will be held in Canberra from 7:20pm on Saturday 1 September 2018 at the Albert Hall, Commonwealth Avenue, Yarralumla.

Music by The Currawong Bush Band with John Short calling. The Currawong Bush Band has made regular appearances at various Monaro Folk Society (MFS) Dances over recent years. John Short is widely regarded as one of Australia's leading dance callers and composers.

This year we present a selection of dances from each of the States and Territories of Australia that highlight the vital role played by dance composers, dancers and choreographers in the development of social dancing in Australia.

Come and celebrate and dance back in time - and wear something funny, elegant, or unconventional and inspired by a State or Territory of Australia, maybe even just a pin with a floral emblem or the costume of a fauna emblem!

For all the details please see monarofolk.org.au

Photos taken by Canberra journalist Lyn Mills at the 2017 Colonial Ball are at: www.socialcapital.net.au/events/article/?id=monaro-folk-society-annual-colonial-ball-albert-hall

N.B. This year, as a joint initiative of the Monaro Folk Society and the Canberra Mandolin Orchestra (CMO) a grand concert will be held at the Albert Hall in the afternoon of the Colonial Ball (Saturday 1 September 2018.)

The concert will have an overall Australian flavour presenting a history of social dance in Australia from earliest colonial times until the new vogue era. It will involve the CMO playing a selection of dance tunes from that period together with demonstrations of various dances.

Concert discount tickets will be offered to Colonial Ball attendees. More detailed information on the concert at CMO.org.au

Saturdays In The Casual Room – Megan Roweth

I first heard Megan recite about five years ago when she was lifted onto a chair so she could reach the microphone. It was Banjo Paterson's "Been There Before" and, at the time, I thought "what a wonderful rendition". Over the past five years it has been a delight to see and hear how much she has developed and become quite comfortable in her choice of material and its delivery. Five years of festivals, poet's breakfasts and concerts have given her the experience and aplomb to match, and quite often surpass, reciters of any age.

The CD itself is presented in a cardboard case with a well-designed cover (Megan's work) where most of the poems are represented as pictures on the wall in the "casual room". It literally invites you to pull up your favourite chair, make yourself comfortable and sit back and enjoy!!

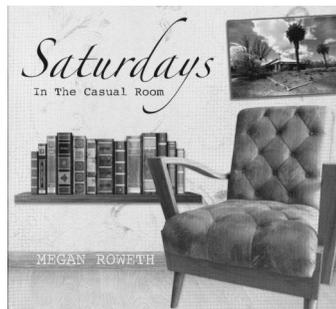

From the selection of material on the album and Megan's ease of delivery, it seems fairly safe to assume that she has chosen the poems she wanted to record - the emotional connection to the poems in her delivery comes across as very natural and relaxed. You can tell that she has not only spent time learning the words but really thinking about the best way to deliver them to make the most of the listeners enjoyment. Well done Megan.

This CD is an absolute must for collectors of Australian poetry and for those who have never owned an album of poetry, a great opportunity to listen to a thoughtful mix of some well-known standards, some lesser known material and two of Megan's originals which are very powerful – belying her young age! It is a CD you will want to listen to often just to feel the different emotions of each track and listen to the tempo and warmth of Megan's voice.

It is very exciting to see new, young reciters enjoying and building on the resource that is Australian poetry. This is quite an exceptional album for someone so young and I am very much looking forward to her next offering!

Poet's Corner

The Woolshed Ball

They came from the stations near and far,
And they came from the fettle's camps,
And the shed was bright with the flaring light
That shone from the swinging lamps;
The ladies nodded and wagged their heads
As they sat beside the wall
With the giggling girls, their hair in curls,
That came to the woolshed ball.
And the men stood round the door,
Or scraped candle on the floor,
While the fiddle quavered softly and the concertina crooned.

"Select yer partners for the first set!
Prominaid. Prominaid!"

The men came up with a rolling gait;
But the younger ones were shy
In their slop-made suits and their heavy boots
And collars inches high;
And some wore spurs, and the Bathurst burrs
Had clung to their coloured tweeds;
But they pleased the girls, who'd their hair in curls
And their necks adorned with beads.
And the coloured tweeds were soiled
By the saddles newly oiled;
But they promenaded gaily till the fiddle found the note.

"Saloot partners! Double Hetty!
An' half-right an' left."

There was swishing in and swishing out,
For the ladies' dresses trailed,
And a rustling sound as they whirled around
And the concertina wailed;
And jokes were flung as they swayed and swung
Or slipped on the greasy stands,
The nimble toe and the dull and slow,
Till the M.C. clapped his hands;
And the perspiration dripped
As the dancers gaily tripped
By the matrons gazing proudly on their daughters in the set.

"Places! An' order for Mister Mobbs's recitation. Ordah!"

Then Mobbs recited a stirring tale,
 'Twas of hunger, death and snow;
 They said "Ongcore!" and shouted "More!"
 But the boys yelled "Let her go!"
 Then the mothers crept where the babies slept
 By the press or in the bin,
 Where a sagging skirt or a misfit shirt
 Was fixed with a safety-pin.
 And the men went out to see
 Were the horses getting free.
 And some to take their socks off, for their boots began to pinch.

"Select partners for sirlkir walse.
 An' Prominaid. Prominaid!"

The old and young got to their feet
 And the tunes were sweet and new.
 'Twas "After the Ball"; then, best of all,
 Came "Two Little Girls in Blue."|
 And the pace was fast as they circled past
 The fiddler in his chair,
 And some of the dancers sang the words
 And some of them hummed the air.
 Then the girls hung close and tight,
 Goggling eyes with all their might,
 While the older ones were winded and were trooping to their seats.

"Balance an' reverse. Prominaid to supper.
 Prominaid. Prominaid!"

The tables creaked with the loads they bore
 Of beef and mutton and sweets,
 Dry-salted ham and home-made jam,
 And the wool-bales did for seats;
 All round the shed and overhead
 Were wattle and gum-tree leaves –
 They laughed and joked, for the tea was smoked,
 And the men rolled up their sleeves.
 Then a veteran made a speech
 Praising all and thanking each,
 This disturbed a friendly 'possum that was camping up above.

"Miss Giles will oblige the company with a song.
 'Sweet Maree' Ordah!"

Polka, quadrille and circular waltz,

Till the dawn came up the shutes,

With measured beat the aching feet

Ragged round in the heavy boots;

Then "Ladies' Chain" to an old refrain

When the lamps were burning low,

And the sky was grey with the break of day

And the stars began to go.

Patient horses gnawed the rails,

Hunched their backs and jammed their tails;

For the break of day was chilly and their hair stood up on end.

"Should old erquaintence be forgot
Hin the days uv old lang zyne."

Then the harness straps were buckled,

And the traps were turned around,

But a joke was played, and rugs mislaid

Then a search till they were found.

And the young ones wait, by rail or gate,

And some of the girls (with their hair in curls)

Hang back for a parting kiss

And when they get away

It is past the break of day,

And the horses need no urging when their heads are facing home.

"Whoa back, Blossom! Bail up, Rose!
Bail up! Bail up!"

Pennant Hills Dance Activities

Pennant Hills Community Centre: (lower, air-conditioned hall)

The August workshops were busy as we practiced the dances for both the New Sydney Ball (25th August) and the Canberra Ball (1st September). For the Canberra Ball the challenging dances were "John McDouall Stuart" (a Scottish Strathspey) and "Double Sir Roger de Coverley". For the New Sydney Ball, David Potter taught for two of the workshops to ensure we were up to speed with the dances on that program. Thanks David!

In September we will be practicing the dances for the Gosford Flannel Flower Spring Ball, always a great event with a good selection of interesting dances. This year the featured "historic" dance will be the (original) "King's Waltz", named after King George V.

In October we will be learning the dances for both the Beecroft and Gosford November dances. The band playing for the BMC's Beecroft dance will be the Barangaroo Bush Band, playing again for only the second time after their successful world premiere last year.

In November we will be practicing for the Pennant Hills Dance Workshop Christmas Party.

Plenty of dancing at the Pennant Hills dance workshop! See you there!
