Rob and Olya Willis have just been awarded the Australasian Sound Recording Association (ASRA) award for 2019 for 'Their Outstanding Contribution to Oral History Collecting and Recording'. The Association is made up of private record collectors, professional sound archivists, radio broadcasters and social historians, consisting of individuals and institutions with a strong interest in sound recording history, its development and all related activities.

Previous winners include academics, June Bronhill, Slim Dusty and John Meredith. This is a great recognition of the dedicated work Rob and Ollie have done over many years in documenting and preserving oral history, folklore and the culture of everyday life.

Congratulations Rob and Ollie and watch out for more of their work on the Verandah Music blog and Youtube channel.

Gulgong Folk Festival (see p13) will have two songwriting competitions: one is a political parody competition; and the other is a new one for a general song written in 2019.

We have bid a final farewell to Donna McLaren who passed away in October.

YouTube has an episode of an early folk music TV program Just Folk, hosted by Gary Shearston, featuring Danny Spooner and Colin Dryden.

Have you got time for a bit of a chat?

We have nearly passed the 65th Year of the Bush Music Club and our 70th is just around the corner. The Club has decided it is time to collect all those special memories of people and events. It would just be a friendly chat to talk about old times (and new times). Hopefully from this the Club will be able publish these reminiscences for the 70th Birthday Celebrations. You don't need to have been President of the Club (but that would be good), everyone has stories to tell and we would love to hear them. We need to hear from dancers, reciters and the musicians.

If you are interested in contributing to this project and would like more information contact Kerry: mandokerry@gmail.com or 0409 600 949.

Poet's Corner

Famous or Infamous Aussie Expats

By Dot Newland

Aussies come in many forms
Some become expatriates,
The way of life is never smooth
Ambition is a cannon loose.

Famous Aussie exports,
Expats from this land,
Some of them are famous stars
And others bad or mad.

Hoges, an Aussie battler
Once hung from the Harbour Bridge
Then he slid to US stardom,
A hero in Hollywood.

Nicole, Keith and Hugh, stars
And others come to mind,
In sport there was Shane,
And in newspapers, Rupert too.

But politics and warfare paint
A world with extremes,
Prakash recruited fighters
Bound for Syria with Isis,

And he in a Christchurch mosque
Whose acts of terror, shame
So heinous- not one of us
Will dare to speak his name.

Expat Aussies on the rampage
Hiding around the world
Should we bring them back here
Or protect our Aussie herd?

George Pell had Cardinal virtues
Devotion, holy esteem.
He lived & worked in Rome
But then the cracks appeared

He was extradited, returned
Home to Aussie land
Facing charges, victims voices
Childhood traumas, angst.

But spare a thought for Aussies
Who might have gone astray
Assange exposing injustice
Exposing military games

Whistle blowers for justice,
Heroes for victims maimed
Bravely standing for human rights
But persecuted in jails

Famous Aussie exports,
Expats from this land,
Some of them are famous stars
And others bad or sad.

Pennant Hills Dance Activities

Pennant Hills Community Centre: (lower, air-conditioned hall)

The dance workshop has been busy over the past few months, practicing for the New Sydney Ball, the Central Coast Ball and the Beecroft dances.

Our next event is the Pennant Hills workshop Christmas party planned for Monday 9th December. We will have the BMC Concert Party providing the music and a great night is guaranteed. Please bring a small plate of food or a drink to share. As usual, if this is your first night at Pennant Hills, entry is free. If you haven't been to the workshop for a while, come and join us on this special night.

The Christmas Party is not our last gettogether for the year. On Monday 16th December we will be holding our annual request night. Come along and request your favourite dance.

Our first workshops for 2020 will be held on Monday 13th and Monday 20th January. However these will not be held in the Pennant Hills Community Centre, as the building is closed for maintenance during January. We are trying to hire the Pennant Hills Learning and Leisure Centre (6 Warne Street, walking distance from the Community Centre) for these two workshops but unfortunately this hasn't been confirmed at this time. Please check the BMC website in mid-December for the latest update.

From Monday 3rd February we will be back in the Pennant Hills Community Centre and looking forward to a new year of dancing.

sary, Alan Scott journeyed south from Sydney to give an illustrated talk in the Ringwood Town Hall.

In July 1967 the VFMC and the Folk Lore Society of Victoria formally amalgamated, with the Folk Lore Society operating as a sub-committee of the VFMC with specific delegated duties. This was done so that the combined group could continue the collecting work of the Folk Lore Society and preserve their valuable archives. The Folk Lore Society continued in this form until it was finally wound up in 1994, the 35th anniversary year of the VFMC.

SINGABOUT

DECEMBER 2019

THE OTHER BUSH MUSIC CLUB

60 years of the Victorian Folk Music Club

The Victorian Bush Music Club was established in 1959, 6 years after the success of Dick Diamond's play Reedy River introduced traditional songs to the public, and 4 years after transplanted Sydney member Joy Durst, along with Frank Nickels, started Victoria's first bush band, the Billabong Band.

In 1963 the Club changed it's name to Victorian Folk Music Club, and the Club & Band are still going strong!

Report from President Steve Bullock - We had great success with the VFMC 60th anniversary celebrations - the Woolshed Ball was widely praised, and the birthday cake was scrumptious. Then last week we had a special Tuesday music session with a big supper (and more cake), and invited the Newport fiddle club to join us (something we had intended to do for a considerable time). It was also a great success. The Billabong Band has been busy with the Ball, and numerous community events, with plenty more gigs before Christmas.

BMC & VBMC worked closely for many years with BMC giving their younger sibling space in Singabout until 1964 when VBMC & the Folklore Society of Victoria established their own magazine, Gumsuckers' Gazette, later Australian Tradition.

After Singabout ceased in 1967, John Meredith & other BMC members published articles in Australian Tradition.

The book Against the Stream, a history of the Melbourne New Theatre notes that the Melbourne production of Reedy River premiered in March 1953, featuring the Unity Singers, Unity Dance Group and a small orchestra. The play was based upon a selection of actor John Gray's collection of traditional bush songs.

The bush band was introduced in the Sydney production later that year and became a part of all subsequent productions. The Melbourne production, like the Sydney one, was a roaring success and played to packed houses, running for a number of years.

In 1955 Melbourne formed its own Bushwackers Band following the band of that name appearing in the Sydney production of Reedy River.

In the Summer 1956 edition of Singabout Frank Nickels reports that The Billabong Band is the name chosen for Melbourne's folk ensemble, which was originally the Melbourne Bushwackers. Frank was their mouth-organist and reported that they were "privileged to have a concertina player in the band".

By 1958 the Billabong Band were advertising for new members who could "manage one of the following instruments - guitar, button-accordion, concertina, mouth-organ, flageolet, recorder and similar". They were also looking for some "reasonable voices".

At the same time there was an announcement of the first Singabout Night in Melbourne that was "such a success that a member of the audience offered her home for the second". It also notes that "it won't be long before a Bush Music Club is flourishing down south".

The Winter/Spring 1959 edition of Singabout announced that "Inspired by the Billabong Band, a Bush Music Club has been formed in Melbourne". The club was formed primarily to run the Singabout nights. They reported having 40 members and about twice that many attending the Singabout Nights. The club's secretary was Keith Watson, the only member of the band to be on the committee. The band decided to limit their presence on the committee so that they could concentrate on their own work.

At the time of the formation of the Victorian Bush Music Club the Billabong Band were involved in the latest production of New Theatre's Reedy River, and were "somewhat exhausted" after a six week season of four shows a week and several matinees.

In August 1959 the Melbourne club accepted an offer to take a ten percent share of Singabout magazine. They then contributed articles and songs to the publication.

1960 saw the club's activities expanding and dances were being introduced at Singabout sessions, including the Barn Dance, Virginia Reel and Quaker's Wife. Singabouts were also arranged for other organisations and they had even got an article about the club in the Melbourne Herald. In August of that year a new publication The Victorian Bush Music Club Monthly was started. Not totally happy with the name, the club changed it to Gumsuckers' Gazette from issue 3.

A meeting was also held with the Folk Lore Society of Victoria to see if they could benefit from sharing of ideas and activities. This was successful and resulted in mutual sharing for many years and the eventual amalgamation of the organisations. The two organisations also combined to jointly produce the Gumsuckers' Gazette.

In 1961, the club started running a Club Dance in addition to the Singabout nights. By 1962 folk was making it into the mainstream press, and in December they made an initial contact with the Nariel musicians and dancers, holding their New Year's Eve Dance in the Nariel Hall.

1963 saw the club, along with the Folk Lore Society and the Council of Adult Education, organise a week long Australian Folk Festival which concluded with a special Singabout in the Lower Melbourne Town Hall.

Towards the end of 1963 the club decided to change its name to the Victorian Folk Music Club to better reflect their interests in contemporary as well as traditional Australian music. In early 1964 Gumsuckers' Gazette was also renamed and became Australian Tradition, its current title.
